

Henk Alberts

I opened my Academy in 2012 at Pretoria Country Club after 12 years playing on the Sunshine Tour. I travelled a lot overseas and gained experience through my interactions with other fellow golfers. My degree in Human Movement Studies, which I obtained from the University of Pretoria, also helps me in understanding the human body.

Teaching young kids of all ages and beginner golfers are my main focus points and I believe that it is an important starting point in growing the game of golf.

We have around 2000 members at Pretoria Country Club in the various sections which includes golf, squash, tennis and social. Looking after our members is also a big part of my role as coach at our club.

My main attributes to be successful as a golf coach is patience and good communication skills. I also spend time with my fellow PGA members, like John Dickson, to learn from them to make sure I also keep track of the latest trends in the golf industry.

Talking and communicating with other members of the PGA are also very important for me to make sure I keep on improving and developing as a coach.
